Fund manager's report

Source : Groupama AM

October marked a sixth consecutive month of gains for US equities, driven by generally solid quarterly results, particularly in the artificial intelligence sector, the main driver of the market. The indices continued to rise (S&P 500 +2.3%, Nasdaq +4.7%, Russell 2000 +1.8%, Eurostoxx50 +2.5%, Stoxx600 +2.5%, Nikkei +16.4%, MSCI Asia ex-Japan +4.5%). At the end of the month, the easing of trade tensions between China and the US also contributed to the upward momentum. Although the Federal Reserve cut rates by 25bp, in line with expectations, the rise in yields was due to a less accommodative tone than expected, casting doubt on a possible further cut in December. At the same time, the defaults of Tricolor and First Brands in the United States brought renewed attention to credit quality. The US 10-year yield settled at 4.1%, while the German equivalent remained stable at 2.6%. On the commodity market, crude oil fell back to $65 a barrel and gold lost nearly 8% from recent highs. In terms of currencies, the dollar continued to strengthen, reaching 1.15 against the euro, after 1.17 in September. From a sector perspective, healthcare, IT and utilities outperformed, while materials, real estate and financials underperformed. The fund outperformed the MSCI World mainly due to stock-picking. Micron and Broadcom, driven by investments in Al data centres, posted sharp increases, respectively +36% (in EUR) and +14%. Thermo Fisher Scientific in healthcare (+19%) reassured the market about the strength of its business, particularly in bioprocessing. Note the underperformance of Motorola Solutions (-9.4%) and Agnico Eagle (-2.9%). We initiated positions in Vertex Pharmaceuticals, a leader in the treatment of cystic fibrosis, Argenx, an innovative European autoimmune disease company, and Oracle. At the same time, we took partial profits on Broadcom, Micron and Agnico Eagle.
