Fund manager's report

Source : Groupama AM

April was marked by the resumption of talks between the US and Iran. This de-escalation of geopolitical tensions prompted renewed risk appetite, leading to a significant tightening of credit spreads (iTraxx Xover: -69bp; iTraxx Main: -14bp). Against this backdrop, sovereign yields continued to be volatile, while remaining broadly stable over the period as a whole. At the beginning of the month, intensifying diplomatic talks, falling oil prices and the resilience of US economic indicators contributed to lower interest rates. However, towards the end of the period, despite the US Federal Reserve and the European Central Bank keeping their key rates unchanged, bond yields rose slightly, amid apparent deadlock in negotiations between Tehran and Washington. Both the Fed and the ECB maintained a cautious stance, arguing that it was still too early to fully assess the impact of the conflict in Iran on the global economy and the inflation outlook. Over the month, the portfolio delivered a positive performance and outperformed its benchmark index, driven by the rebound in risky assets. We maintained a moderately long duration bias, particularly in the UK 10-year yield. We maintain our relative value strategies, namely positions betting on a steepening of the German yield curve, a long position in BTPs against OATs, and a long position in Slovakia against Bunds. As regards inflation strategies, we initiated a strategy based on the steepening of the US CPI 10-30 year yield curve.
